Everything you do online leaves a trace—like a footprint. This includes the websites you visit and the things you post. Staying safe online is very important! Here are some simple tips to help you protect your privacy and keep your information safe: First, don't share personal information—like your full name, address, phone number, or school—unless your parents say it's okay. Second, always keep your passwords secret, except from your parents. Third, don't talk to strangers online or meet them in real life. Fourth, don't open links or downloads without asking a grown-up first—some might have viruses. Fifth, be kind online—don't send mean messages, and tell a grown-up if someone else is mean to you. Finally, tell a parent or teacher if you feel worried or see something strange online.

Gen Alpha is changing the way we live and communicate. They are digital natives because they learn to use technology before they can read. They usually spend a lot of time exploring the latest trends. They share memes and sometimes send emojis instead of words. They enjoy discovering new apps every day. Many parents are trying to limit screen time while also encouraging useful digital skills.

Listen to the text and answer the following questions:

Mahmoud Mokhtar (born in 1891) was a very important Egyptian sculptor and national hero. He was the first Egyptian sculptor in a long time, mixing ancient Egyptian art with new European styles. His most famous work, the Nahdat Misr statue, was created after the 1919 Revolution against the British. Mokhtar died in 1934. Later, a museum in Cairo was opened to display his art. His work continues to inspire many young Egyptian artists today.

Listen to the text and answer the following questions:

Egypt is working to solve the problem of traffic jam. New metro lines like Line 3 and Line 4 were built. Projects like Tahya Misr Bridge and 6th of October Bridge in Cairo help cars move faster. The country is building an electric train and a monorail to give people more ways to travel. Egypt also made flyovers and tunnels. These plans make the roads better. These projects aim to reduce travel time and make transportation safer for everyone.

Listen to the text and answer the following questions:

Amal wanted to climb the high mountain near her village. She faced many challenges, but she did not feel discouraged. Her father suggested that she practice climbing at a time. Amal kept going every day and showed determination. She learned to take it step by step and finally reached the top. Amal felt proud of herself and began to enjoy the amazing view from the mountain. Her success inspired other children in the village to try new challenges and never give up.
